UNICEF EVALUATION OFFICE

Evaluation of the United Nations Girls’ Education Initiative (UNGEI)

1.0 PURPOSE

The UNGEI partnership is seeking qualified and eligible individuals to submit a proposal to provide services to conduct an evaluation of the United Nations Girls’ Education Initiative.

2.0 GENERAL REQUIREMENT

The UNGEI Global Advisory Committee (GAC) has commissioned an evaluation of the partnership, the activities of which will commence in January 2011. The evaluation aims to explore the extent to which the UNGEI partnership is achieving intended outcomes at the country level, and the extent to which the global efforts are contributing to the effectiveness and efficiency of the UNGEI partnership. The evaluation will be anchored on UNGEI’s proposed results framework1, the outcomes of which are to ensure that countries have sound national policies that promote girls’ education and gender equality; that best practices in facilitating girls’ education and gender equality are known and institutionalized; and that the partnership facilitates an effective partnership for girls’ education and gender equality. Hence, we invite qualified consultants to indicate their interest to provide services as the international lead evaluator for this evaluation. The international lead evaluator will work with and receive inputs from six national and/or regional evaluators/consultants, and have the overall responsibility for the evaluation methodology, execution and quality.

3.0 SCOPE OF WORK

United Nations Girls’ Education Initiative (UNGEI). UNGEI is a partnership of organizations committed to gender equality in and through education by narrowing the gender gap in primary and secondary education. UNGEI further seeks to advance the attainment of MDG 2 and MDG 3, to have all children complete primary schooling, with girls and boys having equal access to quality education by 2015. UNGEI is a partnership that includes organizations from the United Nations family, governments, civil society and the private sector, as well as communities and families; UNICEF serves as lead agency. The initiative works at global, regional and country levels to ensure that girls receive a quality education that prepares them to be full and active participants in their societies.

Scope of the evaluation: Approximately 40 countries in five UNICEF administrative regions currently have an active UNGEI partnership. UNGEI works primarily at policy and technical levels and uses three main strategies: policy dialogue and advocacy, where UNGEI’s collective voice adds to efforts to raise awareness on the importance of girls’ education and to influence policy discussions; technical outputs and capacity development, focusing on 1 One of the objectives of this evaluation is to validate the outcomes and the proposed monitoring and evaluation framework. We will have a finalized framework at the conclusion of this evaluation.

filling knowledge and information gaps by creating and sharing tools, resources and experience; and, coordination and alignment with current aid architecture by promoting greater aid alignment and sustained aid allocations for girls’ education. The GAC has commissioned an evaluation to assess the added-value of working under the partnership, the objectives of which are:

- To define the key elements that make a strong partnership for girls’ education at the country and regional levels;
- To map the status of UNGEI partnerships in all participating countries (currently estimated at over 40) and regions (currently five);
- To validate a set of proposed outcomes to be achieved in advancing the girls’ education and gender equality agenda in education in each country;
- To map and/or examine the governance structure and administrative components of the UNGEI partnership at the global level; and,
- To identify information needs and propose a framework and/or mechanism for collecting empirical baseline data for future evaluative work.

There are two distinct elements of the evaluation, the first being data collection and assessment of the partnership at the national and regional levels to be carried out by national and regional consultants. The other major component comprises, through a desk review exercise, mapping of UNGEI activities in participating countries to provide the global status of UNGEI partnerships, undertaking quality assurance visits to two (2) of the six case study countries, as well as synthesizing evaluation input from those countries to produce the final evaluation report.

Professional requirements for International Lead Evaluator. Given the complexity of evaluating partnerships and the relative paucity of evaluations in this area, we seek an evaluation expert with seniority in terms of experience in evaluative work, the number and range of evaluation he/she has conducted, mature and creative thinking about evaluation design as would be required in the relatively new area of evaluating a partnership in the area of education development. The international lead evaluator should have expertise in the education sector and work experience in girls’ education and gender analysis. He/she should also have experience with the UN system and familiarity with rights-based work.

Period of assignment. The international lead evaluator is expected to work 90 person days between December 2010 and June 2011, and work with national evaluators from six countries and one region.

4.0 SUBMISSION OF EXPRESSION OF INTEREST (EOI)

Interested evaluation experts and/or consultants are required to complete and submit the EOI form (in Appendix 1 of this document), and provide a 2-page response to the 5 open-ended questions.
