

Meaningful and funded partnerships with girls and young feminists shifts the power.

CARIBBEAN REGIONAL YOUTH CONSULTATION

What we have learned from feminist movements is that more than solidarity and collective action lies in mutual partnerships, strong co-ownership, and co-leadership and we need everyone for this to happen.

Overview

Transform Education hosted by UNGEI has experienced exponential growth in the key areas of membership and funded partnerships in 2021/2022. Growing in popularity, TE has been able to attract notable global advocates working to transform education in the areas of Climate Justice, Comprehensive Sexuality Education, STEM, Girls Education in Emergencies and Gender Transformative Education. From October 2021 to October 2022, TE has increased its membership by 63 active members. Establishing two co-leads each for our 6 working groups under our working collective.

TE now has a virtual presence on Twitter and Instagram, growing three times its size within the past year. By building a strong online community, this has allowed for TE to create sustainable connections and communities, globally.

Key Partnerships and Projects

- FHI 360 Gender Plus Summit: Through the linkage from UNGEI, TE is one of the global south planning partners of the FHI 360 Gender Plus Summit. As a global south partner, we received a stipend to support on facilitation, coordination and speaking for TE members to meaningfully participate. We have also curated our own session/ fireside chat on the role of power and privilege in inclusive education. TE also spoke at several panels on feminist movement building approaches and challenging gender norms in formal education.

- Secondary Education Working Group: Following a successful iteration of the Transforming Education in Crisis project in December 2021, the SEWG has recruited TE to join their coalition, providing additional funding to lead a follow up project. This project takes the form of needs assessment and a series of workshops packaged as teach-ins (these teach ins are based on the Gender At Work Feminist School framework, GTE brief and EiE GenKit).
- Gender Transformative Education E-Course: Following the development of GTE brief in 2021, partner organisations, UNICEF, UNGEI, PPlan International and Transform Education are embarking on developing an online course that allows for grassroots organisations and activists, teachers and ministers of education to understand how GTE can be adopted to suit their relevant contexts. Transform Education plays a pivotal role, providing a perspective that includes the needs of young people, learning styles and profiles of grassroots activists along with the case studies of real life implementation and youth led interventions. TE's GTE Working group has been tasked with creating communication material to be used throughout the online course. This includes videos and videos. TE will also be co-leading the development of content for Module 4 which highlights influencing of governments and international organisations to fund and support GTE.

- UNESCO Pre TES Consultations: Transform Education was tasked to lead a series of regional consultations to gather the inputs from grassroots organisations and activists to influence the youth declaration. Through this partnership, we were able to secure UNESCO funding for two TE members representing the Sub Saharan Africa and Caribbean regions.

- Feminist Advocacy Communications Workshop (Plan UK): Plan International UK has set up their group of youth panelists working on education in crisis (Youth4EiE). Since their group is still starting we had provided a one-day worksop on using feminist principles and approaches in advocating and communicating activism on education in emergencies.

Transform Education’s method of feminist mobilizing has been rooted in intentional and agile involvement of its members and feminists activists. Despite majority of TE’s activities being held online, TE members have started a bi-monthly community catch-ups and feminist solidarity “CommuniTE calls” wherein members are freely able to discuss together certain work in and through education from their contexts. We have also maximized a platform to connect through “Mighty Networks” and have connected asynchronously with the members. There are also occasional calls called “Solidarity Circles” (eg. Menstrual Health Day, International Book Day) to zoom in on intersecting issues surrounding gender equality and education. Moreover, TE’s social media takeover has ensured consistent participation of members externally and visibly. Transform Education Key Priorities for 2023

1. Resource Mobilization

This year we have secured project-based grants and partnerships thanks to the enormous support of adult-led and institutional partners (UNGEI, Plan International, UNHCR, FHI360, UNESCO). As TE is getting bigger, unrestricted funding and securing resources is needed to fully support the members and young feminists are needed. Thus, we aim to build a fundraising strategy to utilize our growing networks and expand to fundraise for the upcoming years.

2. Stronger Membership and Working Groups

In 2022, we have expanded our calls for membership and received huge amount of interest, commitment and young feminist leadership to transform education. We aim to make this sustainable, engaging and more consistent in this upcoming year.

3. A working intergenerational Advisory Group

This year, we had started the idea of this pilot intergenerational group of experts, activists and feminists. In 2023, we will be continuously engaging them and intentionally listening to their guidance and support for TE strategic management.

Thank you!

We are grateful to our members who are organizing in their communities, and to our allies for your support. Here's to a year of continued feminist leadership and collaboration to transform education for gender equality.
